You're #Ordained!

Share your newly found ordination status with your friends and family:

Congratulations on your ordination via ulc.org, a division of the ULC! Are you planning to perform a wedding in the near future? In most areas of the country, you will be asked to present official proof of your legal ordination before being allowed to officiate a marriage ceremony. With your credentials in hand, you will be able to:

- Legally officiate weddings across the United States
- Impress your friends, family, and peers with your new official status
- Expand your career as a minister / professional officiant

Next Step: Order Your Official, Legal Ordination Credentials

Classic Wedding Set

As an exclusive special for new ministers, we are happy to offer this Classic Wedding Set just for you!

The package contains a beautiful credential fit for display, a clergy badge, one certificate of marriage, one fancy floral marriage certificate, a personalized Universal Life Church ID wallet card, and our guide book titled "By the Power Vested in You" showing you how to perform a wedding.

This deluxe credential is printed on a high-quality, black plastic card and features ornate gold-foil lettering on both sides.

Official Letter of Good Standing

Many counties require an Official, signed letter from the church to verify your ordination. This letter satisfies that requirement!

Before performing any weddings, please click the buttons below to learn more about the ULC, receive weddings training, view a customized guide to performing marriage in your state, or generate a personalized script for the upcoming ceremony.

Beyond solemnizing legal marriages, your ordination allows you to exercise a host of rights and freedoms made available to all ministers. You can start your own church, create good in your community in your new capacity, as well as perform baptisms, funerals, house-blessings, baby-namings, and a number of other ceremonies.
